CSIR-NBRI to organize three Training Programmes on Gardening Aspects

CSIR-NBRI Botanic Garden is one of the oldest and historical gardens in India, well known for its immense contributions to conservation and sustainable utilization of important plant resources of economic, ornamental, horticultural, biological, ecological, educational and recreational values. The garden serves as a national facility to conserve the rich plant wealth of our country and offers opportunities to researchers, students, teachers, plant lovers from India and abroad. Apart from these, CSIR-NBRI Botanic Garden offers training programmes on various aspects of gardening as part of their societal commitment for creating employment generation among the public.

This year, the Botanic Garden of CSIR-NBRI is going to organize two days training programmes on the following subjects of gardening-
